1. Purpose

This policy guides fair conduct across all activities of I61 Foundation (“the Foundation”). It applies to staff, volunteers, contractors, funded organisations, partner entities, and funding partners. The purpose is to ensure that all people engaging with the Foundation or its programmes are treated with respect, fairness, and dignity.

2. Legal Framework (Mauritius)

This policy is informed by legislation in Mauritius, including the Equal Opportunities Act 2008, and the Workers’ Rights Act 2019. These laws prohibit unfair treatment in employment, service delivery, education, public activities, and organisational practices.

3. Scope

Any person may report concerns. These may relate to staff behaviour, partner conduct, funding partner conduct, or treatment of individuals in programmes supported by the Foundation.

Reporting channels include:

- The individual's supervisor or manager.

- When necessary, external authorities such as the Equal Opportunities Commission.

7. Investigation Procedures

Upon receiving a report, an initial review will determine whether informal resolution or formal investigation is appropriate. Formal investigations may include:

- Interviews with involved parties.
- Document and communication review.
- Engagement with partners, funded NPOs, and funding partners when incidents relate to joint activities.

A written outcome will summarise the findings and any required corrective steps.

All collaborating organisations must:

- Maintain nondiscrimination measures aligned with this policy.
- Cooperate with reviews, inquiries, or project assessments.
- Inform the Foundation of any incidents affecting project safety or fairness.
- Ensure staff involved with Foundation-related work understand and follow this policy.
- Funding partners must commit to nondiscrimination expectations when entering agreements with the Foundation.

9. Record-Keeping

The Foundation maintains records of reports, inquiries, training, and compliance reviews. Partners, funding partners, and funded organisations must also keep relevant records so that adherence can be verified when necessary.

10. Review

This policy is reviewed periodically to ensure continued alignment with Mauritius law and the governance framework of I61Foundation.
